From the enigmatic Jan in "After the Rain" to the introspective Nina in "Blood," Belbel's characters engage in a relentless pursuit of understanding, both of themselves and of those around them. Their actions, often driven by a mix of vulnerability and desperation, expose the raw emotions that bind us together and tear us apart.

The Themes: A Chiaroscuro of Love, Deception, and Loss

Love, in all its multifaceted glory and torment, is a central theme that weaves its way through the fabric of "Caresses." Belbel's characters navigate the treacherous terrain of romantic relationships, grappling with the intoxicating allure of love, the corrosive sting of heartbreak, and the lingering shadows of loss.

Deception, too, plays a pivotal role, revealing the treacherous paths that humans tread in their quest for connection and self-preservation. Belbel's characters are not always who they seem, and the masks they don can lead to devastating consequences.

Loss, in its myriad forms, haunts the pages of "Caresses." Whether it be the loss of a loved one, the loss of innocence, or the loss of hope, Belbel explores the profound impact of what we leave behind and the ways in which it shapes our lives.

The Storytelling Techniques: A Fusion of Innovation and Tradition

Belbel's writing is characterized by a deft blend of innovative storytelling techniques and traditional theatrical forms. His plays often challenge conventional structures, employing fragmented narratives, non-linear timelines, and dreamlike sequences to create a disorienting and yet deeply immersive experience.

Through the use of symbolism, metaphor, and poetic language, Belbel weaves intricate tapestries of meaning, inviting readers to delve into the hidden depths of human emotions and motivations. His characters engage in introspective monologues, revealing their innermost thoughts and desires, while engaging in dynamic and often confrontational dialogue that propels the narrative forward.
