The comic book begins with two friends, John and Mary, who are sitting in a coffee shop talking about their dreams. John wants to start his own business, but he's not sure what kind of business he wants to start. Mary is a talented artist, and she suggests that they start a business together selling her artwork.

John and Mary are excited about the idea, and they start working on their business plan. They decide to call their business "Art by Mary." They create a website and start selling Mary's artwork online.

At first, business is slow. John and Mary don't make any money, and they start to get discouraged. But they don't give up. They keep working hard, and they eventually start to get some customers.

As their business grows, John and Mary learn more about entrepreneurship. They learn the importance of perseverance, teamwork, and customer service. They also learn that it's important to be adaptable and to be willing to change their business plan as needed.

The Parable of Entrepreneurship is a great story for anyone who is interested in starting their own business. The comic book is full of valuable lessons about entrepreneurship, and it will inspire you to follow your dreams.
